University of Kentucky Federal Credit Union Dean's Conference Suite

The University of Kentucky Federal Credit Union (UKFCU) made a generous donation of $100,000 and will name the Dean's Conference Suite, located on the main floor of the new College of Design building.

In 1937, UKFCU was chartered in the College of Agriculture at the University of Kentucky. Supporting education has since been a pillar of the long-standing partnership. UKFCU's sole purpose has always been to serve the financial needs of its members by offering quality services and products while maintaining a financially strong institution. Today, UKFCU has grown to be a leading financial institution serving nearly 100,000 members.

"The investment in the University of Kentucky community is deeply important to us. Supporting the College of Design allows us to say thank you to the students, faculty, staff, and alumni that we proudly serve," said President and CEO David Kennedy. "This year, we celebrate 85 years of service, and we look forward with excitement to the next 85 years."

UKFCU recognizes that exceptional service and strong relationships are vital to its mission of members helping members achieve financial well-being. It is with great pleasure that UKFCU supports continuing education with long-time partners at the UK College of Design.
